In Earth in Mind, noted environmental educator David W. Orr focuses not on problems in education, but on the problem of education. Much of what has gone wrong with the world, he argues, is the result of inadequate and misdirected education that: alienates us from life in the name of human domination; causes students to worry about how to make a living before they know who they are; overemphasizes success and careers; separates feeling from intellect and the practical from the theoretical; deadens the sense of wonder for the created world. The crisis we face, Orr explains, is one of mind, perception, and values. It is, first and foremost, an educational challenge. The author begins by establishing the grounds for a debate about education and knowledge. He describes the problems of education from an ecological perspective, and challenges the "terrible simplifiers" who wish to substitute numbers for values. He follows with a presentation of principles for re-creating education in the broadest way possible, discussing topics such as biophilia, the disciplinary structure of knowledge, the architecture of educational buildings, and the idea of ecological intelligence. Orr concludes by presenting concrete proposals for reorganizing the curriculum to draw out our affinity for life.

"Video Mind, Earth Mind" is a collection of texts (1968-1991) by Paul Ryan offering ideas about how video and television can be used to respond to our ecological crisis. For example, Mr. Ryan presents the development of a teachable method for using video to interpret the natural world. Based on this method, he articulates a systemic way of using television to ground human communication in ecological systems. He argues that grounding our television communications in ecological systems will help control our runaway destruction of this planet and shape ways of living on earth that are sustainable.

In your life you come to a point when thinking about doing something just doesn't do it for you anymore. Each of us walks on this world for a purpose with particular talents and predispositions. These forces shape us and they drive our every action. My actions told me I was an adventurer at heart. However, soon I realized life was not just about being on the road. I began to broaden my thinking. I considered the bigger picture. What were the benefits of doing all this? More importantly, how is this helping anyone else besides me? Is the road even benefiting me or am I lost in my self-delusion? After six years of pursuing my adventures, I began to think what would be the best way to give back. I sat down and asked myself, what do I know? How can I present what I know? And how can it best benefit people? This book is the result of seeking an answer to these questions. By combining poetry, personal stories, and descriptive narratives, this book delivers a one of a kind piece aiming to merge skills, passion and vision and makes a compelling argument to get out and hit the Road of Life. Entertaining, insightful, and inspirational, this book presents the value of the road and how to utilize it to succeed in many aspects of life. Like the road, this book has a direction of education, but leaves room for the reader to explore and find value in areas specific to them. #1 International Best Selling Book #1 Travel Writing (USA) #1 Travel (USA) #1 Two hours or more (65-100 pages) > Travel (USA) #2 Two hours or more (65-100 pages) > Self-Help (USA) #2 Motivational (USA) #2 Essays & Travelogues (UK) #1 Essays & Travelogues (Germany) #3 Motivation (Germany) #1 Essays & Travelogues (Canada) #3 Motivational (Canada) #7 Essays & Travelogues (AUS) #8 Tourism (Brazil) #5 Travel Writing (India) #1 Tourism (Mexico)

Dr. Griffiths' Principals of Inclusion is both a practical, realistic blueprint and an inspiring call to action for accelerating schools/school systems in their search to optimize all students' potential (inclusion). In an information age and an increasingly interconnected Global Village, no student's potential can afford to be wasted, especially by exclusionary educational practices/traditions (either conscious or unconscious). Dr. Griffiths writes clearly, using universal metaphors/tactics applicable to all educational situations.

Teachers, especially those in nursery and pre-primary schools, know that it takes specialized learning aids to help children learn how to identify objects, develop eye-hand and fine motor coordination, improve attention span, and learn to focus on the activity in which they are participating. The aim of BEE CLEVER Activity Books Keeping these important learning factors in mind, a pre-school educator and counsellor has created a series of simple and stimulating activity books. These help develop the skills a child needs, plus contribute to the further development of the child's 'writing readiness'. Pallavi Dalal - the creator of BEE CLEVER Activity Books - has spent over 25 years working with pre-school children. She says, "There has been much thought, care, understanding, laughter and joy that has gone into creating these books. I can only hope that they will bring children many 'magical moments' of learning, and spending time with each other in a happy and relaxed frame of mind." Two Important Factors While planning any activity for children, two important principles of learning are always uppermost in her mind: 1. "I see and I remember." 2. "I do and I understand." She has designed these books to develop differentiating and logical thinking skills in children and evaluate their interests in certain areas, without making them feel like they are being 'tested'! How BEE CLEVER books are DIFFERENT - Objects illustrated are those a child is generally familiar with. - Instructions can be read to a child without having to simplify them. - Illustrations are bold and clear for the child to see and work comfortably. - Accurate use of grammar, punctuation and spelling. - Each book in the series explains the value of doing that specific activity. - Simple 'Do's and Don'ts' create a 'win-win' situation for the child.
