At the Fundy National Park golf course, fungicides containing mercury were applied to greens between 1949 and 1983, and mercury contamination still persists on the course. This report summarizes three 1995 studies to provide an assessment of that contamination. An Environment Canada study documented potential environmental contamination from the use of mercury-based fungicides on golf course greens in Atlantic Canada. Another study by GEMTEC provided a more detailed valuation of the magnitude and distribution of mercury contamination at the Fundy National Park course by analyzing samples of soil, water, grass, and sediment. The third study involved a human health risk assessment using data from the GEMTEC study and results from air samples collected on a hot summer day. Methodology employed included hazard identification, toxicity assessment, and risk characterization.

In addition to overseeing projects, managers are expected to provide creative input and foster an environment that can respond, rather than react, to changing parameters and fluctuating objectives. Facilitating the development of the skills required to do so, The Strategic Project Leader: Mastering Service-Based Project Lea

In this book Richard N. L. Andrews looks at American environmental policy over the past four hundred years, shows how it affects environmental issues and public policy decisions today, and poses the central policy challenges for the future. This second edition brings the book up to date through President George W. Bush's first term and gives the current state of American environmental politics and policy. "A guide to what every organizational decision maker, public and private, needs to know in an era in which environmental issues have become global."—Lynton K. Caldwell, Public Administration Review "A wonderful text for students and scholars of environmental history and environmental policy."—William L. Andreen, Environmental History
